A Brief History of Zion Methodist Church

Zion Methodist Church was organized by a small group of people in the summer of 1867, with Rev. Elisha Lilston leading. Rev. R. W. Laughlin was appointed pastor at the next meeting of annual conference. Since there was no church building, he preached and held prayer meeting in the homes of various members.

In the year of 1870, Ben and Fannie Eaton donated land for a church building. A very small old fashioned house was built. After the crowds increased and new members were added, it soon was apparent to all that a larger building was needed. A larger and nicer building was erected, but through an error, it was found to have been built on adjacent land, that was not included in the deed. This raised a dispute and Robert and Ida Nebughr donated and deeded the parcel of ground where the present building now stands. A beautiful frame building was soon erected under the pastorate of Rev. Lawrence Smith. This building was struck by lightning in April, 1907, and burned to the ground. The people immediately built the present building in 1908 under the pastorate of Rev. Marion Jackson. This building has been kept in reasonably good condition, from year to year.

Electricity was added as soon as available. In the year 1953, a complete redecoration of walls and ceiling was carried out. Beautiful wall and ceiling paneling was installed by men of the community.

A fine new oil furnace was also installed. This time the women of the church did the honors. They accepted the job of cooking for a Methodist Youth Institute for a week at Giant City Park. After taking the job and successfully doing it for three seasons, they had enough money to buy the furnace. All were eager to see the last of the old pot-bellied stove, Rev. Dewey Hermes was pastor at this time. The following year, our nice hard wood floor was laid by some men of the community, James Barnett was pastor. The communion rail was installed under the pastorate of Rev. Paul Rundel in 1958.
